

Spring Awakening

Spring is one of nature's greatest performances — a time of rebirth, renewed energy and dramatic transformations. It's a game changer for nearly every wild creature on the continent: it sets everything in motion. Previously bare trees bud and flower. Bears leave their winter dens, emerging from hibernation. Hummingbirds, elks, and a myriad of other species embark on epic migrations. Breeding season begins for many animals, which is crucial for survival.

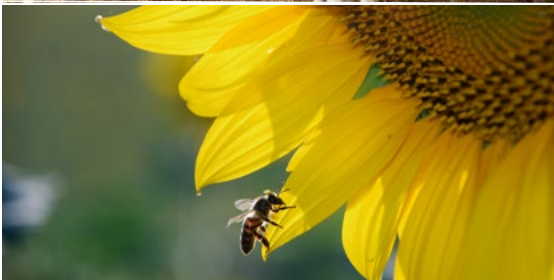

Enjoy a front-row seat to this spectacular natural adventure with American Spring LIVE, a multi-platform Nature event that presents the change from winter to spring from iconic locations across America. "In addition to witnessing incredible wonders, my hope is that American Spring LIVE will inspire people to go outside and get involved with science. Everyone can play a part in our natural world," says Nature executive producer Fred Kaufman.

Acclaimed news anchor Juju Chang hosts, with biologist Thor Hanson, entomologist Phil Torres, and other on-camera experts showing springtime phenomena in locations across the country — from the Rockies to the Everglades, from inner-city parks to remote wilderness preserves.

Witness the birth of a lamb in Maine, visit a densely populated bat cave in Texas, follow black bears as they emerge from winter hibernation and search for food, and get up close and personal with orchids and their pollinators.

Researchers and citizen scientists in the field will share real-time discoveries about how longer days and warming temperatures trigger dramatic transformations in plants and animals — and you can join them by becoming a citizen scientist in pursuit of data on the science of spring!

What exactly is citizen science? It's research that relies on the general public to collect, submit, and analyze data as part of collaborative projects with professional scientists. Whether you're a team player or prefer to fly solo, there's a citizen science project for everybody — from counting birds in your backyard, to monitoring the budding and blooming of spring flowers, to tracking the arrival of monarch butterflies in your community.

BOSSSES BLAZING TRAILS

The history of business and entrepreneurship lies at the heart of the American story, but when you think of American success stories, there are some stories you may have never heard.

Directed by Peabody and Emmy Award-winning filmmaker Stanley Nelson, Boss: The Black Experience in Business traces the lives of African American entrepreneurs over 150 years — from those bound by bondage to moguls at the top of million-dollar empires, to today's most prominent business leaders. It shines a light on these remarkable trailblazers who embodied the innovation, risk-taking and determined pursuit of a better life we most admire about the entrepreneurial spirit — and whose stories are often absent from the narrative of business history in America.

PREMIERES WEDNESDAY,
MAY 1 AT 9PM

EVENTS SPOTLIGHT

Fifteen-year-old Heidi Schreck earned her college tuition by winning Constitutional debate competitions. In What the Constitution Means to Me, the Obie Award-winning actress/playwright recalls her teenage self, tracing the relationship between four generations of women in her family and the founding document that dictated their rights and citizenship. It's now on Broadway for a limited engagement following its successful Off-Broadway run.

With an additional donation, enjoy a pair of orchestra tickets for Schreck's "electrifyingly topical" (The New York Times) play at the Helen Hayes Theatre on MAY 19, MAY 21, or MAY 23.
